Title: Landscapes of Injustice

Presenter: Kathryn Bridge

Abstract:

The Royal BC Museum and Archives is a major partner in the 7 year research project Landscapes of Injustice which focusses on bringing forward new information about the dispossession of personal and real property experienced by Japanese Canadians in British Columbia during the Second World War. The project is multifaceted with a research phase followed by a knowledge diffusion phase in which outputs to the research will be created including website content, databases available for public searches and a traveling exhibition.
